Message from the Headteacher

The Children's Commissioner is keen to gather the views of children across the country. We have had shared with us the link to a questionnaire which is open to any child living in the UK. Your child may be able to complete this independently, or may like to do so with your support. If you would like their voice to be heard, click on the image and it will take you directly to the survey. More information is available through the same link.

OPAL

What a wet week it has been! However, this has not deterred the children, and, with wellies donned, they have still made the most of their time. They have become incredibly creative in their play and it is fantastic to see them discussing and managing their own risks.

Fingers crossed, the sun will shine on us more next week so we can finally get the sand pit, that everyone worked so hard on, open and expanded further.

Safety Reminder

- The main road gate opens at 8.45am - a number of children are arriving earlier and they are therefore unsupervised on the main road. Please ensure they leave home so they can be crossed into school safely by Mr P.
- Anyone using the car park to drop off or pick up needs to be part of the rolling system. Please stay in your cars and move forward as the cars in front of you leave. If we can see you further back in the queue and have enough staff to do so safely, we will walk your children to your car or allow the children to walk along the fence to you.

Book Review by Flo

Anna at War by Helen Peters

I like this book because it is adventurous. I recommend it to people 8 plus, because it has a gun in but no people died.

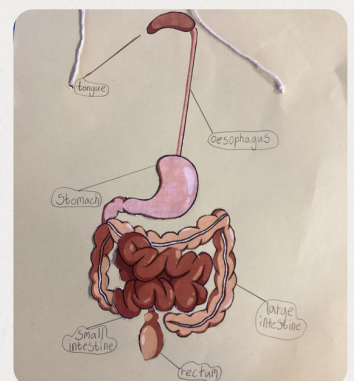

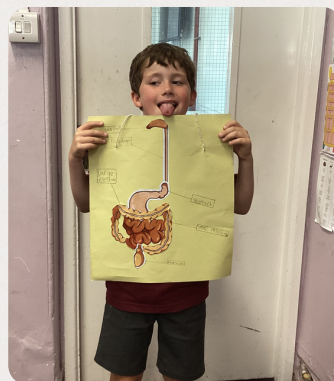

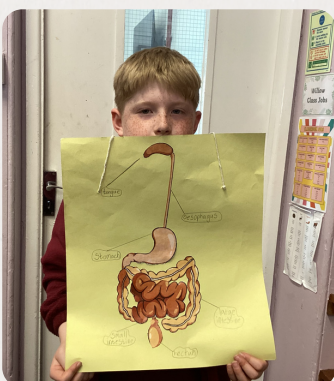

This book is about a kid called Anna who has to move to England to be safe, but has to go without her parents.

I really enjoyed it and I hope you do too. If you like the army, you would like it because there are soldiers.

Willow Class

In science, we are learning about humans and other animals. This week, we started learning about the digestive system.
